

We're not talking about the typical seven world wonders, we're talking about both natural and man made masterpieces that are all around us. There are so many places to explore around the world that would take your breaths away and these places can be so close to home.